

The puppeteer is busy all evening. He controls every puppet as he tells a story on screen. He makes the voices of the puppet characters, too. Our eyes dart back and forth, following the shadows.

Shining Light

Long ago, oil lamps provided light. Today, some puppeteers still use flames. However, electric lights, such as halogen lights, are most often used.

