

Then Peter sees a little red ladybird land on a green leaf. The ladybird goes munch, crunch, munch. It eats the yellow insects that feed on the green plant.

Munch,
crunch,
munch.

Ladybird

Aphid

Ladybirds eat aphids. Aphids can be green, black, red or yellow.

Seeing red

Rainbow lorikeet

Bees cannot see the colour red, but birds can. In fact, many birds can see all the colours that we do. Some plants have red berries or red flowers with nectar to attract birds.
