Level 2

This level is suitable for students who have been learning English for at least two years and up to three years. It corresponds with the Common European Framework level A2. Suitable for users of CROWN/TEAM magazines.

SYNOPSIS

Senna tells the story of a small Brazilian boy's fascination with cars, his determined rise to the top of motor racing, and his tragic death at the age of thirty-four.

He was born in São Paulo, Brazil in 1960. He was from a wealthy family, and when he showed an interest in motor sports his father bought him a go-kart. He spent much of his childhood on the go-kart track and in the workshop of a go-kart engineer, and in his teens won the junior go-karting championship in Brazil and then South America. At the age of twenty he moved to Britain, at that time the best country to base a career in motor sports. He took his new wife, Lilian, with him.

He raced in Formula Ford, and won the championship. But at the end of the year he decided to go home to Brazil. Lilian hated Britain, and he couldn't raise the money to pay for a Formula Ford car for a second year. Back in Brazil, however, he raised more money and returned to Britain. He and Lilian split up.

After two more years in lower formulas, Senna joined the Toleman team in Formula One. A year later, unhappy with the Toleman cars, he moved to Lotus and, from 1985 to 1987, won six Grand Prix races. For Senna, this wasn't good enough. He moved to McLaren for the 1988 season.

Finally Senna was happy with the car that he was driving, and he won the World Championship in 1988, 1990 and 1991.

However, his rivalry with his McLaren teammate, Frenchman Alain Prost, became bitter and dangerous. The championships of both 1989 and 1990 were decided by collisions between the two drivers in consecutive Japanese Grand Prix races.

Senna tried to move to Williams when their cars became faster than the McLarens, but Prost blocked the move. In 1994, when Prost retired, Senna finally joined Williams.

Everything was going well in his private life. After a failed relationship with Brazilian TV superstar Xuxa, he was now happy with Brazilian model Adriane. He was giving a lot of his huge earnings to Brazilian children's charities, and had started a business in Brazil that would keep him busy after retirement. That retirement never came, however. At the 1994 San Marino Grand Prix, Senna lost control of his car on a bend and crashed into a wall. The accident was fatal.

MEDIA LINKS

DVD: The documentary Senna (2011), directed by Asif Kapadia, is available on DVD and Blu-ray.

HOW TO USE YOUR SCHOLASTIC READER

Choosing and motivating

Is this the right book for your class? What do students already know about Ayrton Senna and Formula One? What more would they like to find out? Motivate them with background information (see the synopsis above) and by reading aloud page 6 of the book.

Organising

Plan a class reading schedule. Decide how many pages to set for reading each week. Select exercises from the Self-Study section at the back of the reader and extra activities from this resource sheet to go with each chunk of reading. (All answers on page 4 of this resource sheet.)

Using the CD

Students can listen and follow in their books. They can listen and then read. They can read and then listen. All these activities will improve their reading speeds and skills.

Glossary

Go to 'New Words' at the back of the reader. Translate the words with the class or get students to find meanings at home. The Vocabulary Builder on page 3 of this resource sheet practises the new words in a different context.

Fact Files

Set these as self-study or use for whole class work. There are fact files throughout the text as well as at the back of the book. These provide information about the countdown to race day and Senna's McLaren car. The fact files at the end of the book focus on great champions of Formula One, other types of famous races, and the history and culture of Brazil.

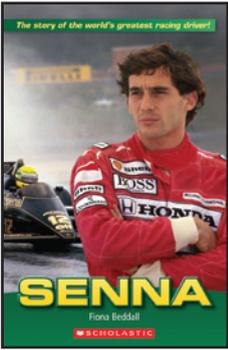

What did they think?

Get everyone to do a written or spoken review of Senna. Compare opinions. Did they find out anything new about the driver, or about motor sport in general? Do they think that he was a hero? Why/Why not? Did they like the book? Did you like it? Let us know at readers@link2English.com.

Interview

In groups students create a short radio show with interviews from a Formula One race. One student is the presenter, the others are drivers, engineers, spectators etc. What are they doing? Why? Record the interviews and present the show to the class.

Research

Students research 5 interesting facts about another car. It could be a modern car or an old car. Students can choose how they present their information to the rest of the class. The class then discusses how cars have changed.

GREAT CHAMPIONS OF FORMULA ONE (pages 48–9)

Profile of a champion

Students research their favourite champion either from Formula One or a different sport. They create an information card about the champion like the ones in the book.

Quiz

Students divide into three groups. Each group prepares questions about Formula One: its history, races, drivers, teams and cars. They then ask each other their questions as a quiz.

FAMOUS RACES (pages 50–1)

Acting out

In pairs, students choose one of these races and act out a scene from it. They can both be competitors, or one can be a sports commentator. They prepare and practise their scene, then perform it for the rest of the class.

Plan a race

In small groups, students plan a new racing event. They should decide which sport it will involve, and where it will be. Then they write an email or Facebook message telling people about it.

BRAZIL (pages 52–3)

Research

Students choose one other aspect of Brazilian culture, history or geography and use books or the Internet to find out more about it. They then write a paragraph about the information they have discovered. Some possible topics include: Carnival, the Amazon rainforest, samba, indigenous tribes.

Diary

Students imagine that they are visiting Brazil and write a diary entry. They should include information about the weather, the places and events that they have seen, and the people that they have met. They should describe how they feel about their experiences in the country.
