ROBIN HOOD

The Taxman

At Nottingham Castle, the Sheriff is talking to two men.

A nun arrives at the castle.

Robin's friends are in Sherwood Forest.

Marian is in the garden of Knighton Hall.

Marian and Sir Guy go into the house.

Please, Marian. I want to be your friend ... maybe one day your husband.

Then go to her now. You have important work, Sir Guy. Please, go.

Goodbye, then, Marian.

Sir Guy is leaving. Why is he angry, Marian?

Because I don't want a husband ... I don't want him.

Sir Guy is an important man, Marian - a good husband for you.

I hate Sir Guy ... Maybe I can be a nun. Nuns don't have husbands.

I don't understand you, Marian. You don't want a husband. You go out every night and help Robin Hood and his men. It's dangerous. Do you want to be dead soon? Stop this, now!

I can't stop. People have no food. Without my help, their children don't eat.

Stop, or leave this house.

I can't stop, so ...

Where are you going? Marian? Marian!

In Sherwood Forest, Robin meets his friends.

So, who have we got here?

A taxman. His name's Flaxton. Look at his book.

Very interesting.

What does this mean, Flaxton?

I can't tell you that.

Aaarghh!

Put him down! Please! Put my father down!

He's your father? ... John, put Mr Flaxton down.

John!

Not my son! Please!

Now, let's try again. What does this mean?

Then tell us.
