Write an acrostic poem

If you know what the new baby's name will be, you could try writing an acrostic poem. An acrostic poem means that each letter of the name is the first letter of each line of the poem. If you don't know the name yet, you could use the words BABY, LOVE or FAMILY to write your poem.

What are you looking forward to?

In the three hearts below, write three different things you are looking forward to doing with your new sibling! This could be anything from singing them your favourite nursery rhyme to introducing them to Granny.

My family

Draw a picture of your whole family, including your new sibling, and colour it in so your family can hang it in the baby's new room.

Talk about your new sibling

Talk to the person sat next to you about having a new sibling. What are you excited about? Write your top five things below.
