

A photograph of a baby elephant being protected by adult elephants at night. The baby elephant is in the center, looking to the left. It is surrounded by the legs and trunks of several adult elephants. The scene is dark, with some light reflecting off the elephants' skin. In the background, there are faint, glowing eyes, suggesting the presence of lions.

The hungry lions yowl
and growl in the night.
They can see well in the dark. There are lots of them.

Elephants do
not see well
in the dark.
Night means

danger!

The adults group around the baby elephant.