

Ten rules for a calm classroom

We always listen to other people when they are talking.

We do what we are asked the first time we are asked.

We always work to the best of our ability.

We move around the classroom and the school in a calm and quiet way.

We respect each other, our learning, our equipment and our environment.

We keep our hands, our feet, and our opinions to ourselves.

We take responsibility for the way that we work and behave.

We treat others as we would wish to be treated ourselves.

We value the skills of cooperation, consideration and concentration.

We have fun at school, and we let other people enjoy their learning too.
